Observations

By Bob Walsh

OUR LAST LINE?

Who drew the first straight line? We doubt if it could have been a mere man. No man would possess so steady a hand.

All about you are straight lines; your wall, the edge of your table, the ruling on your grocery bill. But none is original. And that which made them was not original.

If you want to draw a true line, what do you do? Pick up a rule and a pen, probably. But the rule was made straight and must have been cut by a machine which contained a guide. That guide previously had been made by another machine which also had been accurately tooled. You can do quite a flash-back in this manner, but can you see the original? Do you know the original source?

You can weave a moral around the straight line without much effort. Who originated the moral code? We know some of them. They are a part of our religion, our philosophy, and our history. But are they the originals?

Is there a parallel between these straight lines, physical and moral? Is the originator the same?

It may be argued that basically there is no straight line. And perhaps it can be physically reasoned that every line has a curve. The magnetic fields within magnetic fields that make up our quantitative characteristics may be completely lacking in straight lines, and if everything is thus constructed, how can any line be truly straight?

And so the atheist will deal with a religious moral. To him it is a curve, made to look very straight but actually intended to mislead. And it is a curve if the one who draws it is not sincere. In which case perhaps he did not pattern it after the original which was truly straight.

Who is there to prove that the original was not a straight line?

Our physicists have given us a rule. It says a straight line is the shortest distance between two points. Our moralists will prove that those who drift from the true course will pay the cost. It is expensive to go the long way.

There are some very straight lines being attempted these days. The shortest distance between Moscow and Washington may be by missile. But is this a straight line?

We suggest that it has a slight curvature to accommodate the earth's surface. If it were truly straight it would go off into space. The same applies to a line from Washington to Moscow, or from Peking to San Francisco, and vice versa.

The limitations of man's greatness are aptly demonstrated in his new found knowledge that is attacking space. The line with which he toys here is not a straight one and he lacks the stature to control it.

The efforts of man to play a role bigger than his intended part can lead to a sound conclusion. No matter how powerful and potent a line he attempts to create, if it actually is a curve it may be his last.

The originator of both the physical and moral lines that were truly straight created a rule that cannot be bent on a massive scale without the destruction of those who would play God.

Man left alone in the wilderness of his own destruction and completely dependent on nature for a new beginning could not with all his knowledge even draw a truly straight line for a fresh start.

BUYERS' CORNER

DISCONTINUING CARS

The recent announcement concerning the discontinuance of the Edsel as a part of the Ford line has resulted in trade talk about similar steps by other major producers. Both Chrysler and General Motors may remove one of their cars where there is confliction. We think it unfair to mention the cars in such articles because of the obvious adverse results it could have. But obviously there is too much duplication.

RAMBLER WINS

A recent six-hour race in the west was held for the new and old compacts. A second-hand Rambler led the field. However, the Falcon and Corvair made a good showing in the grueling test and would have done better if the pit crews had been more experienced. The Corvair burned up forty tires. The Falcon used fifteen, though some were changed for protective reasons and could have gone further.

It was booked as the First International Small Car Marathon and was staged to beat Sebring which will have such an event preceding its December Grand Prix race. In second place to the Rambler was a Volkswagen. The Falcons were third, fourth and fifteenth. The Corvairs finished sixth, seventh and thirteenth.

SMALLEST LAMP

The smallest incandescent lamp is pictured somewhere in this issue. It has been made by Sylvania on the assembly line and is called the Sylvania Mite-T-Lite. It will be used in transistorized circuits in missiles, computers, and electronic systems. The mass production technique makes the smallest possible light source available at a practical price.

WANT SEEDLINGS?

If you want state forest nursery seedlings you should be entering your order. The deadline is February 15. The minimum orders total one thousand seedlings and a minimum of five hundred of each species. The price is $6 a thousand. Chinese chestnut seedlings go for 25 cents each.

These seedlings may not be used for Christmas decorations or for landscaping. They are intended for use in creating new timber supplies on idle, marginal, or sub-marginal agricultural lands for increasing watershed protection, and for providing additional cover for small game.

You also may obtain a circular describing the species and giving planting techniques. This is free.

The available species are white, Austrian, red, banks, pitch, and Virginia pine; Norway and white spruce; European and Japanese larch; multiflora rose, and Chinese chestnut.

HURRY CIGARETTE

The new high-filtration cigarette put out by Liggett and Myers will not be held until 1960. The target date for national distribution now is November 30. A back page of Life will plug it on December 14 and L&M tv shows will admit its existence with early attention. It is called the Duke.

FAST LADY

If the censors start censoring the sensory the latest aerosol product will have a short love life. The purse-sized container is labeled Lady Chatterley's Instant Sexx. We assume it either makes you smell lovely or prevents you from doing otherwise. And how about royalties?

They should have applied something like this to the book.

ARTHRITIC BOOK UNTRUE

The FTC has taken action against the publishers of "Arthritis and Common Sense. A hearing examiner has ruled that advertisements claiming the book's theories are a reliable treatment for any kind of arthritis or rheumatism are not true.

Equally false, Examiner James A. Purcell held, are representations that the regimen recommended in the book -- is an adequate means for arresting the progress of these ills and correcting their underlying causes, and . . . will effectively treat their symptoms and relieve accompanying aches, pains, stiffness, swelling or other discomforts.

He issued an order which would halt these false claims by the publishers, namely, Witkower Press, Inc., 71 Asylum St., Hartford, Conn., and Dan Dale Alexander and Bernard Witkower, president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. Mr. Alexander is the author of "Arthritis and Common Sense."

In Brief

CHRISTMAS CHECKS. For the second year in a row the Christmas savings checks in Warren county have been less than those of the preceding year. This Friday the members of the various clubs will receive 7,270 checks totaling $728,804.25.

Last year it was $733,017.75 for 7,474 recipients. The biggest year on record was 1957 when 7,981 people received $803,306. In 1956 it was $644,911 to 6,437 residents.

LAW SUIT CONTINUES. The final witness or witnesses in the law suit against the Estate of Frank Adams and the person Robert Simonson, Warren, are expected to be heard in Warren County Court today.

The plaintiffs in the companion cases are Clarence Greely, Jamestown; George and Clara Ferry, Jamestown. All three suffered injuries while riding in the Adams' vehicle in October of 1957 when it became involved in an accident with a car operated by Robert Simonson on the Kiantone rd. north of Warren.

Mr. Adams died of natural causes since the accident, and as a result the defendant in the case is the administratrix of the estate, Lillian Swanson.

A Mrs. Frances Persch, Jamestown, was killed in the head-on crash. She was also riding in the Adams' auto.

It is expected the summations will be made in court today and the companion cases turned over to the jury for a verdict.

SHERIFF PROBES DEATH. Sheriff L. E. Linder is probing the death of a 46-year old Allegheny Springs woman, who, according to her husband, took a dose of strychnine after a family spat described by him as "not serious". The dead woman, Mrs. Vivian J. Erickson, a former resident of Warren, died Friday at about 11 p. m.

Mr. Rudolph Erickson said he had retired to a bedroom when his wife came to him and said she had taken the poison and wanted him to mix an antidote. He did so but his wife succumbed, lying on a davenport. Rudolph notified the officials and the woman's body was removed to a local funeral home where an autopsy was performed. Sheriff Linder took the specimens of the body to the Keystone Laboratories in Erie from where an analysis report will be made in the near future.

SMALL GIRL HIT. Katherine Fuellhart, age 4, of North Haven, Connecticut, was hit by a car operated by Harry Stewart Baxter, 32, of 402 State st., North Warren, last Monday at 12:20 p. m. According to an observer, Baxter was proceeding west on Third avenue in the 400 block when the youngster darted diagonally across the road into the path of the auto.

The child suffered a bruised arm and shoulder. Approximately $35 damage was done to the vehicle.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY Samuel F. Bonavita, Tuesday night, stated he would issue a memorandum to city and county law agencies to check on any multiple coin pin ball machines which might be operating in the area.

The State Supreme Court ruled earlier Tuesday that the machines were illegal.

GASOLINE TAX refunds to 33,634 Pennsylvania farmers will be completed within a few days. They are given five cents back for each gallon used for agricultural purposes. The total so far is $2,812,000. The smallest county return was the $125 mailed to Cameron farmers. Lancaster was the largest, $160,420.

END OF THE STEEL STRIKE did not reduce the unemployment checks in Pennsylvania. Last week they totaled 193,064. The previous week they numbered 159,871, an increase of 33,193. The checks drew $5,488,368 from the unemployment funds. But employers contributed $14,040,000. Even with the continued increase there is money available. Four weeks of steel production should change the trend.

SANTA IS COMING. Yes, Santa Claus will arrive in Warren Saturday afternoon at two o'clock to usher in the holiday shopping season.

Riding in a horse-drawn sully St. Nick will be paraded down Penna. ave. from Irvine st., westward to where Third avenue intersects at the point near the Medical Center. With the Warren high Dragon Band leading the way, the parade will then move along Third to Hickory street, go right on Hickory to Penna. turn left and go over Second avenue to Liberty street, up Liberty to Third and finally to the City Building.

At this point Santa will enter a house especially built for him and will greet all the youngsters. He will hand out candy canes to each child and allow every boy and girl accompanied by a parent to register for a chance to win a gift.

Santa will be in his house during the holiday season over 60 hours. His schedule Saturday will be 2-5 and 6 to 9 p. m., as stores in downtown Warren will stay open that evening.

Saturday's program is being arranged by Warren retailers of the Chamber of Commerce and marks the beginning of holiday store hours in Warren.

A complete listing of store hours can be found in an ad elsewhere in this edition.

SELECTED FOR "WHO'S WHO". Two area students among the twenty-two Edinboro State Teachers College seniors who were selected for this year's "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" were John Sechrist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Sechrist, Egypt rd., Warren; and Rodney Vashaw, son of Page V. Vashaw and Mrs. Leo Zandi, Sheffield.

AGAIN THE SCENE of an accident was the intersection of Pine st. and Pennsylvania ave. last Monday at 5:20 p. m. The vehicles involved were operated by Harry Campbell, 52, of R. D. 2, Warren, and Paul Engle, 45, of R. D. 1, Clarendon. Campbell, who was traveling south on Pine, had stopped at the light when a Warren City Lines bus, operated by Engle, backed into him.

About $50 damage was done to the Campbell car and no damage was done to the bus.

JEEP MISHAP. A 1957 Jeep, operated by Gary Beck, 16, of 206 Railroad st., Clarendon, failed to negotiate a turn near Scandia last Saturday and went off the right side of the road. The driver suffered an injury to the right knee and body bruises. The mishap which occurred about ten miles north of Warren resulted in an estimated $600 damage to the machine.

NO CHANGE. Little change in employment was noticed for the past 60 days in Warren County, according to totals submitted by reporting firms to the State Employment Service office in Warren.

A slight increase was seen in the industrial jobs. This was offset by the decline in other fields. Employment figures are slightly better than at this time last year, but substantially lower than two years ago.

As of the last week in October there were 450 persons receiving unemployment benefits. There were 782 at the same time in 1958 and 275 in 1957.

EXECUTIVE RETIRES. T. K. Creal, Warren, retired effective November 15th, from active executive duty with Fancher Furniture Company. He intends, however, to continue his residence in Warren and continue to be active in local civic affairs.

Key employees and executives of the firm's plants in Warren and Salamanca entertained Mr. Creal at a dinner party recently at the Marconi Outing Club.

FIRE

CALLS . . .

Last Friday evening at about 5:25 p. m. the fire department was summoned to 15 Cleveland Circle where the occupant was burning leaves too close to a building, which is in violation of the Fire Code. The party was asked to extinguish the fire.

On Saturday afternoon at 2:44 p. m. firemen answered a similar call at 518 Prospect st. Again the occupant was asked to put out the blaze.

Firemen were jolted from their slumber Monday morning at 3:23 a. m. when they answered a fire call at 12-1/2 S. Irvine st. where a lighted cigarette had caused the destruction of a davenport and a chair in the home of Violet Healy. An estimated $250 damage resulted. The building is owned by Mrs. Cecil Courtney, of 106 Prospect st.

VOD WINNER. Lowell Livezey, Eisenhower high school senior, was winner of the annual Voice of Democracy broadcast script-writing contest recently completed in Warren county. The contest is sponsored by the National Association of Broadcasters, in cooperation with the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

A COPY OF A LETTER regarding the proposed wage tax by the borough council from the Penn Furnace and Iron and DeLuxe Metal unions members reads:

Mr. George Geracimos,
Borough Manager
Municipal Building
Warren, Penna.

Dear Sir:

At a meeting of our Local Wednesday Nov. 18th, 1959 we went on record as opposing the coming wage tax which the Boro fathers have indicated they are going to pass. We feel this is taxation without representation. In our two shops the Penna Furnace and Iron Co. and The DeLuxe Metal Furniture co. we have workers from the outlying districts that would be forced to pay a tax just for working in the boro. We have workers that drive in from Kane, Sheffield, Youngsville and yes even as far as Clarion. We feel this unjustified tax would be a hardship on them.

We of organized labor have contacted the Chamber of Commerce and we would even be willing to boycott the stores in Warren if necessary to get them to take a stand on this.

Sincerely
(S) Wm. Delbert Anderson
President

RECEIVE $1,956.09. Melvin Blair, regional director of the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, last week presented the Warren Co. Development Association with checks totaling $1,956.09 representing 50 per cent reimbursement of expense for the second and third quarters of the year.

This complies with the grant agreement under the provisions of the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Assistance Act of May 31, 1956, which provides State funds to an officially designated industrial development organization in many of Pennsylvania's 67 counties on a matching fund basis.

To carry out the first phase of its responsibility the association employed the services of Arthur D. Little, Inc., to make a complete analysis of Warren County.

This includes a 100-page Fact Manual on Warren County which contains comprehensive information about the resources of the County and "Opportunities for Development of the Forest-Products Industry in Warren County". The most recent publication of facts was that of "Resources for the Resort Industry in Warren County", which is based on a survey to determine the feasibility of the County as a center for the establishment of a vacation and resort industry.

In order to qualify for matching State funds during 1960, the association is now planning a biennial County fund raising campaign similar to the 1957 campaign.

The family you see represents four generations. The youngest are Cathy, Pam and Sherry, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Murphy, 211 W. Fifth ave., Warren. Then there are Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, Mrs. Murphy's mother, and the grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Petry.

Laubach Group Is Organized In Warren

The recently organized Laubach Fellowship of Compassion met Monday evening at the Warren Dairy Association to adopt bylaws and plan its enrollment campaign. The group was formed after Dr. Frank C. Laubach spoke in Warren in August.

Dr. Laubach has spearheaded a national crusade among churches and other organizations to send thousands of technical missionaries to underdeveloped lands and bring thousands of native leaders to America for training in literacy, journalism, agriculture, construction and other technical fields. This people-to-people movement is already under way in hundreds of communities throughout the United States as the Christian answer to the communist threat.

The Warren Laubach Fellowship of Compassion has chosen as its project to bring a national of some other land to this country for advanced training in literacy, journalism, and other fields.

Under this plan a hundred or more concerned people join together to contribute a dollar a week, or some regular amount, to provide funds for sending a technical missionary abroad, or to train foreign leaders here. The local group is open to all interested in participating in such an undertaking. Its goal is one hundred or more enrolled before the January meeting.

At Monday's meeting bylaws were adopted. Fellowship officers include: President, Mrs. Fred Harmon, Jr.; Vice-President, Mrs. Tom Crozier; Secretary, Mrs. Claire Proud, Jr.; Treasurer, Mrs. Herbert P. Stone. Mrs. James Potter was appointed publicity chairman.

The next meeting of the Laubach Fellowship of Compassion will be at the home of Herbert P. Stone on January 4.

Health Is Priceless,
Yet Costs Less Than Ever

Television and Radio

By John Crosby

OVER THE THIN RED LINE

Reflections here on the cancerous growth of childhood all over the world of entertainment have released some long pent up bitterness among the cash customers. There's an Englishman in town who saw the "Sound of Music." It drove him over the thin red line of sanity. He announced to one and all he was going to go straight home and strangle his little ones. Fortunately, the Atlantic Ocean intervened. He's under treatment. No theater. No situation comedies on TV. His friends are keeping him in saloons where he never sees anyone under forty and are telling him dirty stories, unsuitable for children or -- for that matter -- anyone else.

Just the same it might be advisable for all of us to keep our small fry in the cellar until this wave of bitterness blows over. It's been a long time in coming -- the Revolt of the Grown-Ups -- and if we want to avoid bloodshed, we'd best keep the kiddies under cover for a while.

It's not that I'm against the little tots. It's just that they've gone too far. And where -- I keep asking -- did it all start? (I'm a trend-spotter by nature and we trend-spotters are constantly asking ourselves questions like "Where did it all start?" or, failing that, "Whither will it all end?") I think I've pinpointed the exact moment when the little monsters got out of hand. It was when the first little moppet dashed up to a camera and squealed, "Look, Mom no cavities!"

Of course, there are some scholars who say it started much earlier than that. There are those who trace the beginning of the unrest way back when that little girl pulled out her first Castro bed. Frankly, I find this view extreme. That little girl didn't talk. I could stand looking at them, all right, provided I didn't have to look at too many of them.

APPEARS IN RECITAL, Mrs. Everett Borg (pictured), local contralto, was in Pittsburgh Sunday afternoon at the request of Mr. Paul Koch, city organist at Carnegie Hall, for a return engagement as guest soloist on the regular Sunday Organ recital. Mrs. Katherine Koch, wife of Mr. Koch, accompanied Mrs. Borg. Included in the program were a group of Swedish folk songs which were sung with autoharp accompaniment.

The trouble started when they wired the little beggars for sound. Reason tottered when the little darlings began exclaiming in their high-pitched voices: "My mommy made me use Ipana." Strong men began coming unglued when that itty bitty girl quavered into the camera: "Hudson paper tissues tear so straight."

Well of course, Hudson paper tissues tear so straight. But do I have to find this out from five-year-old girls? I'm a grown man, for God's sake. Been earning my own living for years. I take subways by myself and everything, changing to the express at Fourteenth Street, and complicated stuff like that. I don't need some five-year-old kid to tell me Hudson paper tissues tear so straight.

Or that little brat who sells Delco batteries while standing on his head. If we have to have a bunch of kids tell us what to buy, the least they can do is stand up straight, take their hands out of their pockets, and talk up. In the last couple of months the little moppets have run off with all the radio commercials.

"Hiya, there, Boomer," drawls old Dad, the big jerk, "what you got there. Some Charms for the teacher? Now, isn't that cute?" American fatherhood may have suffered an almost fatal blow from Boomer's old man. I'm moving to have him tossed out of the lodge, but the damage may have been done already.

All over radio now, the children have taken over the commercials with their sticky little voices and their sticky little sentiments. There's that man who comes to the door and runs square into the little monster who tells him: "You got Hoffman's." "Yeah, I got Hoffman's." "With laughing bubbles. You know Hoffman's has got laughing bubbles with the Vitamin C." Now just at this point, the man should kill the little horror with one well-timed blow with a bottle of Hoffman's. But does he? No, he lets him live and the next minute we find the little tyke waking up his Daddy with the words: "Wake up, Daddy, I got your breakfast." And Daddy says: "Mmmrrrh . . . what time is it?" "No, it's Hoffman's orange soda with the laughing bubbles and the vitamin C."

We better keep that Englishman away from the radio, too, or, sure as God made little apples, he'll run amuck in the nursery when he gets home.

Added Adolescents

By Inez Robb

It does not surprise me at all to read that American adolescents are haunted by worry, 22-carat anxieties and fe-fi-fo-fum fear, as reported to the U. S. Office of Education by some 1,300 educators across the nation.

Never before in the history of the world have so many been psych-ed so constantly by such a large assortment of experts and buffs as have been American teen-agers. The kids are being killed with analysis, both Freudian and adeno-oidian. It is a truism of any lab that you can only prod a butterfly on a pin just so much before it disintegrates.

But the above is only a small part of the burden of worry and anxiety that is making kids old before their time and their brows corrugated as with care.

Kids have problems, all right, and no wonder! Right next door to the anxiety article is juxtaposed a companion piece explaining that the nation's adolescents are conservatively estimated to possess a spending budget of $9.5 billions annually. WOW!

How can young people, with this much swag in their jeans, possibly be happy and carefree? They are probably up to their ears in the Dow-Jones theory, Standard and Poor's statistics, and Barron's. Hostages to fortune, indeed!

Remember Laughing Electra of "The Children's Hour"? ("Between the dark and the daylight, When the night is beginning to lower, Comes a pause in the day's occupation, That is known as the Children's Hour.")

Well, sir, if little Electra is laughing her head off today, it is probably because she has just made 10 points in one of these juicy, gyrating electronic stocks. And she's sick, sick, sick!

So kids don't respect their parents as they did in the good, old days? How can you expect a lad who has put his spare cash in A.T.&T. to look up to his old man who lost his shirt three years ago in those penny uranium stocks?

Kids want SECURITY, this article points out, and adds, "They have thought long and hard about such subjects as financial stability, mortgages and the need to save." (It used to be the need to shave.)

Oh, don't peg me as one of those old fuddy-duds who thinks modern youth is rude and off its rocker. My sympathies are with it. When I was an adolescent, my financial worries consisted of a dime ever Saturday afternoon, after the dusting was finished. This sum enabled me to enjoy the matinee at the Bijou and either swoon over Blanche Sweet or scream over Harold Lloyd.

I was not forced to select and buy my own clothes, either, as I read is now the custom from kindergarten on. I was relieved of this pressing anxiety by Mama, Grandma and aunts, who made my clothes. I don't ever remember having a store-boughten garment until I was old enough to have a full-time job. (I must have been a retarded sad sack, since I didn't know any better than to be happy and well-adjusted.)

None of my boy cousins was neurotic over jalopies. They may have been a trifle nuts over bicycles, as I was over roller skates. But they were not bowed down by responsibility for or anxiety over an auto. They didn't have to worry about where their next 10 gallons of gas were coming from.

These modern adolescents with $9.5 billions to spend annually earn one-third of that sum, or in excess of $3 billions, which is more than J. P. Morgan made in a lifetime. Kids who have to scrounge up this much hay are already executive suite cases, jumpy as a yo-yo. And on top of all of this, the wretched strain of going steady!

No wonder this is the Aspirin Age, j.g.

Of course, Rockefeller wants very much to be the 1960 Republican Presidential nominee. And, of course, he knows there is only one way to seize this prize -- to wrest it away from Vice-President Richard Nixon.

But though the nature of the problem can be so simply stated, the approach to the problem is one of profound complications. Nixon is, after all, a big part of a Republican administration which Rockefeller himself once served. Nixon is top associate to a President, Mr. Eisenhower, whom Rockefeller respects, both for his office and head of the Republican party.

And Rockefeller himself, make no mistake about it, is an authentic Republican. He is no Old Guardist, true. But he is also not one of those hyphenated Republicans who are really only concealed Democrats.

There is a fairly "liberal" glint in Rockefeller's eye, yes. But he is not nearly so "liberal" as to be prepared to assist the Democrats by rending the GOP in an election year with ill-timed attacks on Nixon.

This is one of the reasons the Governor has decided that he personally, at any rate, will not participate in the chant, "Nixon can't win."

It is also one of the reasons Rockefeller is not already trying to force absolutely clear-cut divisions on issues with Nixon. He doesn't want to make issues simply for the sake of talking. Nor can he actually afford to make them if he must make them at the expense of flatly denouncing the Eisenhower Administration itself -- of which Nixon is, as yet at least, an inseparable part.

All the same, Rockefeller's support of the Administration is not, and in conviction cannot be, total and uncritical. Take the present supreme question of cold war policy. Rockefeller is not in favor of "inflexibility." Nor is he opposed to all efforts to negotiate with the Russians. But, in this correspondent's firm impression, the Governor is as close to some of the views of former President Truman and former Secretary of State Dean Acheson as to those of Mr. Eisenhower.

That is, Rockefeller is afraid of negotiations unless they are based on a rising rather than a falling American power in this world. And it is obvious he feels American leadership today is not a very challenging one -- specifically that it is not offering too much of freshness and vigor either in world or domestic policy.

Rockefeller certainly would like -- and in due time probably will try to provoke -- a high debate with Nixon over cold war policy. He is, however, a man with a marked sense of responsibility underlying that famous grin -- the detached observer concedes him this. He has no wish to shoot from the hip in such an area.

And Rockefeller's people feel, with some justification, that Nixon has thus far not offered much opportunity for a stand-up-and-be-counted discussion between the two aspirants on war and peace issues.

The Vice-President, it is recalled, had much to do with opening the way for the Eisenhower-Khrushchev exchanges -- but later rather pointedly removed himself from them. This kind of classic political maneuver is surely no crime. But it does make it a little difficult on an opponent to find and fix just where the other fellow stands.

Nixon cannot fairly be called a politician who will take no risks. But Rockefeller needs a campaign of very plain speaking, indeed. What he has said so far certainly does not come up to such a definition. His statements to date mostly have been brilliant generalities. But this is the fault not of himself but of his situation. In the end he must force Nixon into a clear national dialogue -- and this far it is not easy to force any front runner.

FOOT NOTES

Why do dancers insist on singing in what otherwise would be very entertaining specials? Astaire has a voice like the cut of his jib and Kelly couldn't sound worse if he had laryngitis. Both have much money with which to employ singers and they spend much of it on everything required to make a balanced program... including more dancers... but never high quality singers.

If these two would just turn on their feet and shut off their pipes we could enjoy a full sixty minutes of it. But when they open their lips to abuse music they are saved only by our failure to invest in remote control.

FOOTBALL NEGLECTED

In baseball season we daily hear a complete run-down, on the hour and some times the half hour, of the results of the baseball activities. In fact we start hearing them in early spring when some sports programs are filled with the results of Peoria's game with the Yankee's B team. In a short few seconds left for other sports we hear gleanings of what is going on in other fields.

Then comes football season. We have not found a radio station (that can be received in our valley), a television station or network, nor a Sunday paper that gives a full report of even the major games in the east. But suddenly we hear the most complete coverage of all other fields.

If one radio, tv station, or newspaper would do a really complete job of reporting the games a large following would be gained. The best we see is the New York Times' Monday edition which gets here late that day or on Tuesday. The Youngstown Vindicator also has earned quite a reputation in this respect. (Congratulations, Passy).

CLEAN AND THIRSTY

If H. K. Pyles, regional forester of the Eastern Region, knows his aquatic facts the American public is thoroughly watered. We now use 1,100 gallons of water a day. Our pappies who didn't enjoy modern plumbing used 600 gallons.

And by 1975 Americans will be using 1,800 gallons a day... a swimming pool in every family and individual showers in all bedrooms, perhaps.

But this is not a light subject. The American demand for water grows, and the forests play a major part in protecting the watershed. It also is why we have a national plan to preserve the water which comes down in the rainy season but runs off in the form of floods.

If we do not back national plans to preserve water and as individuals do our part, such as practicing care in the use of fire in the forests, that 1800 gallons may not be available to fill the need... and our tubs and pools.

Farm and city people are asked to be equally concerned about this problem. Water may be inadequate to provide our growing population's demands on agriculture, domestic services, municipal uses, industrial requirements, and recreation.

GOVERNOR ON EDUCATION

When the ladies of the press recently met with Governor Lawrence they pushed him for a statement on education. He touched on a subject dear to this reporter's heart, the possibility of community colleges in Pennsylvania. In answer to Ann Skow of the Patriot-News, who had just asked if he thought that with the big race coming on we should up scholastic standards, the governor said:

"I think it should be. Then too, we have advanced the idea of community college to sort of meet that situation, too. There is a great deal of waste in schools. That's rather sacreligious to say that, but it's true.

"I have long felt that we do not get out of the schools the full dollar value of taxes put in. In other words, the average school is used five days a week, six or seven hours a day, nine months of the year and I think that if we could put some more time into the buildings, more hours in the buildings, because I doubt whether America has enough money to build schools to meet this increase in population that we're going to have in the next 10 or 20 years.

"For instance, at the University of Pittsburgh, they wanted my okay. I'm on the Board of Trustees there. I am very strongly in favor of trimester program that they put in there to utilize our schools just that much more, because the cost of a building is something out of this world. I don't know how we are ever going to meet it.

"Then too, on the community college, we figure that if a boy or girl takes the two years and doesn't want to go on, that they will qualify to a certain degree, like engineers, helpers, things of that kind, they can be utilized in the communities and therefore, it would be of a great advantage. Then they wouldn't be tossed out when they are juniors and seniors and so on.

"I think too that we're going to pick up a lot of brain power, by reason of that, that we've lost in the past. In other words, there are probably many, many children that had a real brain that we didn't discover because he couldn't go to a campus somewhere.

"But if it was in the town where he lived, he could go there and they could find out in the course of two years whether he had it or he didn't have it. That way we would pick up a lot of brains that America has lost."

Others Say...

When Are You "Overweight?"

When is it time to diet? When are you overweight? If you are over 30, then it is "twenty pounds sooner" than you thought, according to a new study made by the Society of Actuaries, an organization of about 2,000 men whose profession is that of "engineering" life and health insurance, annuities and pensions.

The study covered the experience among nearly 5,000,000 men and women policyholders over the past 20 years and included figures from life companies representing three-fourths of the country's life insurance.

Your "best weight" at ages over 30, according to this study, is about 20 pounds under the average for your height and age. The lowest mortality is shown among people at the "20 pounds under average" level. That means they have prospects for the longest life.

"Overweight" is thus found to begin some 20 pounds sooner than most people have been thinking. If they regarded 30 pounds above average as overweight before, they might now start this classification 10 pounds above average.

Average weights for certain heights and ages were shown in the study as follows:

	MEN
	5'6"	5'8"	5'10"	6'0"	6'2"
30-39	153	161	170	179	188
40-49	156	165	174	183	192
50-59	157	166	175	185	194

	WOMEN
	5'0"	5'2"	5'4"	5'6"
30-39	120	126	132	139
40-49	127	133	140	147
50-59	130	136	144	152

Nearly half of all men and women over 30 weigh 20 percent more than their best weight, although only 6 percent of all men and 11 percent of all women weigh 20 pounds more than their average weight.

Of course, the "best weight" for a particular individual must take into consideration body frame, race and other factors. Thus, it is better to look at the "range of best weights"—that is the range of weights which makes some allowances for individual factors. This actuarial study showed that the following weight ranges were associated with lowest mortality:

Ages	MEN
	Short (5'3"-5'6")	Medium (5'7"-5'10")	Tall (5'11"-6'2")
30-39	115 to 154	115 to 164	135 to 174
40-49	115 to 154	125 to 164	135 to 174
50-59	135 to 154	135 to 164	135 to 174

Ages	WOMEN
	Short (4'11"-5'2")	Medium (5'3"-5'6")	Tall (5'7"-5'10")
30-39	115 to 134	105 to 134	115 to 144
40-49	105 to 134	105 to 134	125 to 144
50-59	105 to 134	105 to 144	135 to 154

Individuals who fall within these limits appear to have the very best potential for good health and longer life and those who weigh more might, in most instances, add some years to their lives if they reduced their weight.

The study showed that overweight persons who reduce their weight to normal levels materially reduce their mortality hazard, for at least a period of years.

TURKEY...
CRANBERRIES,

The first Thanksgiving was made possible by the peaceful generosity of the Indians who shared turkeys, maize and fruit with the hungry Pilgrims. It behooves us to show our thankfulness by likewise sharing our abundance with less fortunate peoples.

Warren Postmaster Knabenshue says: "Early mailing of Christmas cards and gifts is the biggest single factor in getting all mail delivered before Christmas." Post office facilities have been expanded and everything is geared up to handle a record Christmas mail in Warren this year.

He asks us to follow these three simple rules to insure prompt and safe delivery of our Christmas gift packages - wrap them securely - address them correctly - mail them early! Wrap your Christmas gifts carefully by using heavy paper, corrugated cartons, and strong cord. You can speed delivery of your Christmas cards by securing free labels from the post office indicating "all for local delivery" and "all for out of town delivery" then sort and tie your cards in two separate bundles with the addresses all facing one way. Remember, only Christmas cards carrying first-class postage may include a personal message. Always include your name and address on the Christmas card envelopes - this is socially correct and helps both you and your friends to keep mailing lists up to date.

Mail all Christmas gifts and cards for distant points before December 10th. Get your Christmas mailings started now while there is still plenty of time.

THE TRAIL'S END. This magnificent 200-pound trophy was one of the first bears killed in Warren County as the 1959 season began Monday. Werner P. Giesler, 26, of 109 Averill st., Warren, is the lucky hunter pictured with his kill.

Werner, a taxidermist, had kept the beautiful animal under constant surveillance during the week preceding the bear season. He had passed up squirrels and other small game to observe the regular habits of the bruin so that on opening day he might move in for the kill. His skill and patience paid off.

Shortly after the opening minutes he spotted the animal browsing for food and immediately shouldered his 300 Savage and took his first shot. The bullet never found its mark and the burly bear rambled off for protective covering into a grove of pines. Werner followed, getting off a couple more shots, but the bear kept on its course. Giesler crawled into the pines on his stomach, moving very cautiously, for the animal had been wounded. Again he spotted his quarry moving through the brush and again he fired, this time with accuracy, as his hefty foe came to a stop.

Werner went to his car a short distance away and loaded his Colt 45 Peacemaker, seen holstered in the picture. Approaching the animal the hunter saw that the wounded one still had life in him as he tried to make a last ditch effort to getaway. Werner ended the bear's agony with some well placed 45 slugs and the bruin's trail came to an end.

Giesler estimated the animal's weight at slightly over 200 pounds. The lucky man is also a bow and arrow enthusiast, having bagged antlered deer for the past three seasons. His latest kill, a six-point, was taken in the vicinity of his bear expedition.

SQUADS ABOUT SET.

With the opening of the B-ball season for the high school just nine days away both coaches, Joe Massa and Andy Randas, havepared their squads down to a total of thirteen men. Both mentors may yet make a final cut as they prepare for the 1959-60 campaign.

Warren opens the hardwood season at Youngsville on Dec. 4.

THE NUMBER OF HUNTERS

The opening day of deer season will find more hunters than usual in the woods, most of them being school children. This year the Warren school districts have extended the Thanksgiving vacation an extra day, making the opening day of buck season a legal absence for the lads and lassies who want to take to the hills. School will resume on Tuesday, Dec. 1, and we are sure there will be many happy tales to tell in the classrooms.

KEGLERS SHINE AT ERIE

Warren was well represented at the second annual Northern Pennsylvania Elks bowling tournament which concluded at Erie last week end. The local keglers placed winners in the doubles and singles section, another fourth in singles, and a fifth in team totals.

Art Johnson and Paul Coppola rolled over a 1,229 to take the laurels in the doubles and Fred Baldensperger scorched the maples with a 237-646, the handicap boosting it to a 674, in the singles competition.

The New Castle team won the five-man total and all-events title and finished second and third in the doubles and singles.

KULBACKI DRAFTED

Former Youngsville star and Purdue University standout, Joe Kulbacki, has been picked as the number nineteen draft choice by the new Boston club of the American Professional Football League. The new league has stepped by the established National pro football loop and named their draft choices first. Many fans feel this will lead to a payroll war between the two factions. Joe will participate tomorrow (Thanksgiving Day) in the annual Gem City football game in Erie beside many of the top gridiron stars of the nation.

Syracuse star, Gerhard Schwedes, and Northwestern ace, Ronnie Burton, were also listed among the top Boston draft choices.

AIMS FOR '60 OLYMPICS

Bob Benson, a former Warren High grappler, is setting his sites for competing in the 1960 Olympics.

pics to be held in Rome. The matman is working out with the YMCA at Lock Haven.

Bob captured two state titles wrestling with the Lock Haven college mat team and has participated in some of the toughest grappling circles in the eastern United States.

HUMMING WITH ACTIVITY

Monday and Thursday evenings at the YMCA have been the tune-up days for the Y City League cagers in preparation for the coming campaign. On these nights for the past few weeks hoopsters from all around Warren County have been "showing up" to prove their abilities. Some fast and rough action has occurred at these workouts, pointing to an interesting season ahead.

Play will commence next Monday evening, Nov. 30, at 7 p. m. with four nov. combos battling for the league title. Limited action has occurred in the independent circles preceding the league opener but with action under way and interest mounting. Warren fives will be travelling to display their talents in the surrounding communities.

DISTRICT TEN TALK

At a meeting of District Ten officials at Meadville last Thursday evening the proposed league, which would pit the gridiron squads of Sections Two and Three against each other in a new conference, was washed out by a straw vote taken among the officials present. The opinion was that the distances in travelling involved were too great and that there were no natural rivalries amongst the schools.

Also at the meeting the Franklin team was awarded its Section Two title crown and the Erie schools received their awards. The proposed amendments to the PIAA basketball rules, concerning the eligibility of freshmen for varsity competition, were approved by the District Ten officials.

MEN AT PENN

Paul Coppola fired 221-641 and Sam Turner 255-627 to pace the Men's City League Monday night at the Penn Alleys.

In the Jr. Industrial Bill Henry's 584 was tops.

High man in the Industrial loop last night was Ed Nugent with 224-626. Al Stephens hit 233-623, John Randinelli rolled 612, Art Michael dropped 608, and George Biehls 604.

LADY KEGLERS

Millie Burman broke the 500 barrier with 509 and J. Shaddy hit it on the nose in the Ladies' City. Best in Ladies' Class C Tuesday night was Carol Sandberg's 449.

MIXED PLAY

A 224-559 for Ernie Wilson and 456 for Carol Sandberg when the Friday Nighters gathered.

The Mellanders repeated their top performances in the 400 Block Mixed League. Last night Vern rolled a 488 and Janet a 475.

AT THE ARCADE

In the Shop circuit Jack Colvin topped 'em 532, while Bob Hayes scored a 510 in the Pop League.

WHY SMALL RACKS?
A neat little booklet has been published by the Pennsylvania Forest Industries Committee which reveals pictorially the effect overbrowsing has on deer. Pictured are deer which are equal in size but not in antlers. The food value of one was adequate for meat but not for trophies, and a large number of hunters are much more interested in a good rack than they are in just shooting a deer.

Other pages reveal close-ups of plants which have been chewed off by different animals. The damage done to areas by over-browsing is seen in striking contrast with neighboring land that has not been harmed. The effect on seedlings which are turned into bushes, the elimination of good browse by over-stocked land, and many others.

The forest industry is one of the many which deplore the failure of Pennsylvania to do a better job of controlling its deer herd. The booklet is published to enable hunters to see how harvesting and deer hunting go hand in hand. It reveals that an inadequate harvest of either deer or timber harms both.

You can have a copy free by writing the PFIC, 321 Dauphin Bldg., Harrisburg, Pa. It provides you with a side of the story that supports the claims of biologists. So far the Game Commission and sportsmen's groups have shown no signs of being convinced that such authorities know their subjects.

ANIMAL AGES

Northwest Trails, a publicity sheet for Northwestern Pennsylvania sportsmen reveals the ages of many animals common to this area. Few of them probably ever attain these years due to many factors, including hunters, but this is what might be experienced by a healthy animal if old age were his only concern.

We don't have elephants here, but if we did they might stay around for about sixty-nine years. We do have a bird which might stay with the big fellow. The great horned owl could live sixty-eight years, but under the circumstances, including bounties and the lack of friends, it would be doubtful.

If a beaver escapes man's traps he can keep his hide for nineteen years. Squirrels may hang onto their tails for sixteen. The little chipmunk chatters away for twelve. If hounds, meat-eaters, and scatter-guns miss him the cottontail has an expectancy of ten.

The little fish in the pantry, who springs traps and eats the cheese may escape cats long enough to put pretty ankles onto chair seats for four years. English sparrows missed by air guns, slingshots, and bigger wings can stay with us for twenty-three.

Along the banks we can hear the voice of a friendly bullfrog for thirty years. The unwanted mudpuppy is apt to live twenty-three, and the green frog can survive for ten.

We believe the turtle might outlast all of them. The snapper is rated as a fifty-seven year resident. Some of the big kinds live well over one hundred, and we suggest it could happen here.

ANOTHER TARGET

The bill which will allow target shooting on Sunday has been amended to allow shooting for another kind of target. In fact ten of them. The bill as amended would permit bowling.

WOULD YOU DO THIS?

"An archer named Louis Micale of Pennfield, Pennsylvania demonstrated he was a true sportsman during the past archery season," reports Game Protector Fred Servey.

"While hunting on State Game Lands No. 34, located in Elk and Clearfield Counties, Micale came upon a fine buck deer whose antlers were entangled in the wire of a deer proof fence. The sportsman laid his bow aside, obtained a tree limb and pried the antler loose. The deer quickly scampered to safety. Micale told me that for a fleeting moment he considered shooting the buck but did not, deciding to give the deer a sporting chance."

FETCHING DOG

A man who resides in Franklin recently played an unwilling part in a hunter and dog episode. For obvious reasons he prefers his name be withheld. The sportsman returned home from an unsuccessful small game hunt and, in his haste to go indoors, forgot to kennel his rabbit dog.

Some time later the hound made his presence on the back porch known. When the man appeared his faithful hunting companion laid a large, expertly cleaned rabbit at his feet. Though the embarrassed sportsman made a hurried trip around the neighborhood he did not learn where his sympathetic dog made the "snatch", to overcome the day's shortcoming.

STUDY ANTLERED DOE DEER

Pennsylvania deer hunters are asked to help Pittsburgh scientists in procuring antlered doe deer. Female deer of this kind are so exceedingly rare--about 1 in 5,000 to 10,000--that the only opportunity for a scientist to see more than one such animal in a lifetime is by the cooperation of a vast number of hunters. Bucks, whose antlers have not been polished, but are still in the velvet, are also of interest.

Dr. John C. Donaldson of the University of Pittsburgh Medical School and Dr. J. Kenneth Douth of Carnegie Museum are anxious to obtain additional specimens of such animals for study. They are interested in determining why these freaks occur and the possible relationship to human abnormalities.

Thanks to the cooperation of hunters and game protectors, twelve specimens were examined last year. It is to be hoped that 1959 will prove to be another successful season.

If any hunter should kill a doe with antlers, no matter how small, or a buck with antlers in the velvet, he is asked to phone, collect, Dr. J. Kenneth Douth at Carnegie Museum, Pittsburgh, Pa., MAflower 1-7300.

Dr. Douth asks to be permitted to examine the specimen before it is dressed out, if possible. However, if the hunter prefers to hog dress his deer immediately, the entrails should be kept cold (preferably frozen) and protected from damage by dogs or wild animals until the specimen can be examined.

Who's A Bum You Bum

By Inez Robb

When I read the sad news that good-natured Max Baer had died of a heart attack, the memory of the night when Joe Louis delivered the coup de grace to both Mr. Baer and me welled up, crystal clear.

On that occasion, Sept. 24, 1935, in Yankee Stadium, a lot of the customers and sports writers felt that Max had no stomach for the fight. My stomach, so to speak, was in Max's corner.

For one who hates violence and gore as the devil hates holy water, I have sat through my share of both -- as a reporter. At one time, editors were crazy (sic) to send me to heavyweight bouts, and did.

No, no, I never wrote about the boxing, per se. My forte was what is known in City Rooms as "the crowd story."

Editors thought I had a felicitous hand with such a story. In the case of a heavyweight bout, it should wrap up the excitement and hysteria of the event, touch on the political, social, stage and antic figures at the ringside, the avid fans in the $2 seats a good 75-cent taxi ride from the ring, and any noteworthy action in the audience, such as impromptu fisticuffs, etc. In brief: color.

Always I had a ringside seat, and always I hated it! And always I thought of the millions of persons who would have given their eye teeth for that seat, to which I went as a quarry-slave "scourged to his dungeon." Well almost, I was probably the only person who ever sat at the ringside with his eyes tight shut when the going got too sticky.

But the Louis-Baer fight is the only one that ever drove me right out of the arena. It was my humane opinion that the referee should have stopped the fight almost as soon as it began. From the start, Mr. Louis proceeded to cut Mr. Baer to red ribbons.

At the end of the third round, when I opened my eyes and got a glimpse of Mr. Baer, I thought he had been slaughtered!

At that point, I hoisted myself to my feet, abandoned $100 worth of seat and walked as rapidly as possible toward the nearest exit. Just as I was leaving the stadium, I heard the crowd roar, as it always roars at the kill -- as the Romans must have roared in the Coliseum -- and I knew that Max, mercifully, was down for the last time.

It is just possible that among my few distinctions is the fact that I voluntarily walked out of a heavyweight fight without waiting for the Moment of Truth. I was to see a number of Louis fights after that, but never again did I see such a bloody one.

The last big fight I ever saw was in June, 1946, when Joe Louis and Billy Conn fought the first big post-war bout. After that I swore off, and the editor had to find someone else to do crowd stories.

That fight made me realize that not only did I thoroughly dislike boxing but that I had every bit as much distaste for 99 out of every 100 boxing fans. The two fat, soft, middle-aged men, in their tailor-made, pearl buttoned polo coats, next whom I sat, kept up a constant, staccato roar at the two World War II veterans in the ring.

"G'wan and fight y'bums!" they yelled, chomping on their $1 cigars. "Quit waltzin' and fight, y'bums!"

I looked at both those suety customers, who hadn't ever been in any war and who wouldn't have lasted, short of a miracle, sixty seconds in the ring with either Mr. Louis or Mr. Conn. And they really weren't that much older than the two fighters, either.

As I pushed past the fat pair to get out of the stadium, I hissed at them: "Whom do you think you're calling bums, y'bums!"

And right then and there, I gave up boxing forever.

THANKSGIVING IS COMING, but none too fast for these eager youngsters at the Children's Home on Conewango avenue. Here the bright-eyed children look on as Jack Donovan, of the Marine Corp League, donates a large gobbler to Mrs. Adda Logan, supervisor of the Home. Cranberries, potatoes, and all the Turkey Day trimmings will surely be in order beside this tasty looking morsel.

THE LAST EVIDENCE of the use of steam power at the Warren Water Company's station in Glade is being removed. Electric power is now being used at the plant.

On September 8th the last steam unit was removed and now down goes the stack. It is hoped the complete remodeling job will be finished by the first of the year.
